

ISCPO LAUNCHES NEW MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM and UPDATED WEBSITE

Dallas, Texas
March 3, 2015

The International Supply Chain Protection Organization (ISCPO) is pleased to announce the launch of its Membership Program and the re-launch of its fully-featured website, www.iscpo.org. ISCPO promotes a global, collaborative effort of networking for Security and Loss Prevention professionals working in the global supply chain.

The ISCPO Membership Program will allow for a robust communication system of networking between private and public sectors for the betterment of security and loss prevention practices in the global supply chain. There will also be the ability to post and review questions to other members, receive newsletters and industry updates, post and review job openings and receive a 20% discount for the annual ISCPO Leadership Conference. ISCPO is dedicated to partner with industry-leading professionals and organizations to better understand the immediate and long term needs of the global supply chain as it relates to Loss Prevention and Security.

The ISCPO has three primary objectives:

1. Networking – Across global lines of both private and public sectors.
2. Partnership – Create the avenue by which private and public relationships can move into successful business relationships.
3. Training – Provide adequate, professional and timely training (via multiple venues) that is industry specific and relevant

The group is organized across the following sectors:

- Manufacturing
- Retail/Wholesale
- Logistics
- Distribution
- Law Enforcement
- Risk Management/Legal

ISCPO currently has members from 18 different countries that represent numerous business and law enforcement entities. The website features links to our Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter accounts, partnership links, an industry blog, recent news, and upcoming industry events.
